

Editorial

For the past seven years, the editor-in-chief of Prolegomena has been Filip Grgić. During that period, the journal took great steps forward in terms of its publication standards, review process, cooperation with both domestic and international scholars, and the quality of submissions. It was also included in several prestigious bibliographical databases, such as Scopus, Current Content / Arts & Humanities, and the European Reference Index for the Humanities (ERIH PLUS). We would hereby like to express our gratitude to Filip for these valuable results, as well as for setting up the guidelines for running our journal in the future. Starting with this issue, we also introduce a minor change to our publishing policy: only manuscripts written in Croatian or English that adhere to the broadly construed analytical philosophical tradition and its principles of structural clarity, conceptual precision, and soundness of argumentation, will be taken into consideration.
